SEEKS TO IMPROVE WAREHOUSE SYSTEM

Manning Plans to Urge Some Changes in Law to Safeguard Receipts.

Speaking last night of the opening session of the joint meeting of the conference for the common good and the South Carolina Conference of Charities and Corrections, Gov. Manning discussed from the standpoint of the farmer the problem of marketing the cotton crop of 1915. Viewed as a whole, he said, he thought that the situation in which cotton planters found themselves this year was distinctly encouraging. The cost of production of cotton had been cut, great quantities of foodstuffs had been raised at home and the people had economized. Gov. Manning said that in view of these facts, if the farmers had only this season's crop of cotton to market, they would have nothing to worry about. However, the fact that a large part of last year's crop was still unsold complicated the situation decidedly. The governor said that he believed that proper system of warehousing the cotton raised this season, cooperation between the merchants, bankers and farmers and the federal reserve banking system would save the day provided farmers sold their cotton with the greatest care. "In order to get farmers and others to warehouse cotton and not throw it on the market regardless of price," said the governor, "it is essential to have warehouses, to have low rates of insurance and to have a low rate of interest on cotton loans."

The Warehouse System.
Aside from its able treatment of the marketing problem, Gov. Manning's address last night was chiefly important because in the outlined improvements he intended to ask the next general assembly to make in the present state cotton warehouse system, all of which he believed would tend to safeguard the value of warehouse receipts as collateral.

"I am in favor of a state system of warehousing cotton," said Gov. Manning. "However, I intend to recommend to the next general assembly certain changes in our present state system which I believe will safeguard our warehouse receipts. The changes in the system which I intend to recommend are: First, that managers of the warehouses in the state system be disinterested parties, neither owners of the warehouses nor of cotton stored in them; second, that cotton in warehouses in the state system be graded by an official grader; third, that the state warehouse commission, save inspectors and weighers to visit the warehouses in the state system and check up the number of bales in them, the weight of the bales and the grades of cotton to see if these are as represented in the state warehouse receipts."

"If the receipt for cotton warehoused under the state system represents the value given on its face, I believe that it will be eagerly sought and readily accepted security for loans," declared Gov. Manning.

Knows the Subject.
In his address last night, the governor showed an intimate knowledge of the problems connected with growing and financing the cotton crop. This was to be expected as he is a farmer and before becoming governor was also a banker.

Gov. Manning said that if he were in a position to make rules to govern cotton planters in marketing this season's crop he would provide that no cotton was to be sold below the cost of production that the whole crop was to be sold slowly, that none of it was to be sold until the price reached the cost of production or just over it and, that the marketing of cotton by individuals take place only as their debts made it necessary.

Gov. Manning declared that when the federal reserve banks or banks in the north lent money at 4 per cent, to the banks in the cotton belt, the last named banks should lend it to farmers on cotton warehouse receipts at 6 per cent.—Columbia State.

Two Girl Farmers.
(From The Washington Post.)
Oconto, Wis.—Wearing men's clothes, except for bloomers in place of trousers, two Oconto girls are operating a 76-acre farm a mile south of Brookside. They are the Misses Dolly Powell and Edie Bundy. Theirs is an Adamless Eden, and they are happy in it. No male help for them. They do all of their own work on the farm, employing a woman, a sister of Miss Bundy, to keep house, while they go out and till the soil, do the plowing, dragging and seeding, as well as the haying and harvesting. They whistle, talk farm, and stock just like men, and say they are thoroughly enjoying themselves.

"We are perfectly independent and making a good living," Miss Powell said. "We wouldn't be bothered with a man under any circumstances. He would only be in the way. We are free to do just as we please, and there is no one to boss us. The land is owned by Miss Bundy and her two sisters and myself, and we do all the work ourselves."

"It isn't hard and hot and irksome as housework and besides there is more profit in it, and are perfectly independent."

The farm is one of the finest in the country.

Miss Wheat, the new teacher, was hearing the history lesson. Turning to one of the scholars, she asked: "James, what was Washington's Farewell address?" The new boy arose with a promptitude that promised well for his answer, "cal vaven, ma'am," he said.—Tit-Bits.

DR. WHITE SPOKE AT ORR MILLS

ENTHUSIASTIC PROHIBITION MEETING WAS HELD LAST NIGHT

INTEREST SHOWN

And Speaker Was Frequently Applauded—Report Nearly Solid Vote for Prohibition.

Dr. John E. White delivered a masterful address last evening to a meeting held in the hall over the Orr mill company store, about 300 interested people being present. The audience showed great enthusiasm and there was frequent applause when the speaker spoke of the brighter things of the future that will come if the liquor evil is driven from the state.

Dr. White has been interested in the prohibition fight ever since he has been in the ministry and has given it deep thought and attention. His emphatic and forceful delivery adds much to the facts pronounced by him and his address made a strong impression on those attending the meeting last night.

It seems that there will almost be a solid vote at Orr mill in favor of the prohibition referendum today. It is stated that almost to a man they will vote for state-wide prohibition.

MUSEUM GIVES HOSPITAL TRAIN

Munich, Germany, Aug. 30.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—The contribution of the "German Museum" of Munich, one of Germany's most prominent scientific institutions, to the cause of the Fatherland is a hospital train which is declared to surpass in efficiency, excellence and luxury, any other train now in use.

The outbreak of the war all but put a stop to the activities of the Museum; it checked the construction of its new building; it cut off the intercourse with foreign countries that had long been a feature of the institution; and gradually it has taken away a large part of its personnel. The more reason, its leaders decided, why it should perform some concrete sacrifice.

The equipment of a train, it was decided, would afford the Museum the best chance to apply the scientific attainments of the institution in a practical way. The result is a train of 29 cars, with a capacity of 300 wounded soldiers and officers, and about 50 physicians, clergymen, nurses and attendants.

Luxury of appointments was at no time considered essential in the train, but it has been achieved nevertheless in the provisions making for absolute cleanliness and sanitation. The cars are enamelled floor to roof; each bed has its individual electric light; the eating utensils are of nickel or aluminum; each car possesses its telephone; there are ice chests and electric fans, hot water heaters and drinking water coolers; each car has its separate heating establishment for winter time and ventilation system for winter and summer; the train possesses a library and all its cars are made more attractive with pictures and photographs; a small organ is part of its equipment; and last but not least the train has an operation car that is the last word in surgical equipment.

The train now is attached to the army of the Crown Prince of Bavaria. Rupprecht, head of the sixth army in France. It regularly carries three physicians, three administrative officials, two clergymen, three female nurses, 22 assistant nurses and attendants, four firemen and machinists, two cooks, four soldiers and three railroad employees, a total of 48.

The operation car consists of five divisions, in the middle and largest of which the operating table stands. Every known facility of the operating room has been included. There is a Roentgen ray room, a plethora of the latest instruments, anesthetics, materials of all kinds and powerful electric lights, with reflectors. The car also contains a disinfection room, sterilization quarters and an apothecary department.

After a Night Out.
"I'm thorough
"I'm thoroughly ashamed of you. I saw you last night. Out with a perfect stranger, both drinking, and you didn't even know his name."
"I did know his name. He told me his name. Said his name was Norval and that his father was the sheep business."—Judge.

"You'll never succeed as a wheelbarrow or lawn mower chauffeur unless you have push."

Newspaper Man Recommends It.
R. B. Wentworth of the St. James, (Mo.) News, writes: "Two months ago I took a severe cold which settled in my lungs and I had such pains in my lungs I feared pneumonia. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and it straightened me up immediately. I can recommend it to be a genuine cough and lung medicine." Many mothers write this reliable medicine cured their children of croup. Hay fever and asthma sufferers say it gives quick relief. Sold everywhere.
